FROM: Parent Fellowship Council aka PFC

May 2017

Dear parents, grandparents, and guardians:

We thank Janice Royal for being an answer to prayer and stepping out in faith to accept the nomination for Vice President and serve the school she loves in any way that she can. She is preparing an introduction which she will share with us at the May 12 PFC meeting. We also thank Joe Miceli for his willingness to serve as treasurer next year. Janice and Joe are our only nominees for PFC officers. We still need nominees for President and Secretary.

Janice and Joe realize that they can't do it on their own. They are relying on God to confirm them in their positions as they serve next year. Please continue to pray for Janice, Joe, Dr. Moran, and for whomever God is calling to be the PFC President and Secretary.

If you feel led to serve, please respond to me, belindalee@randb.us. The nominating committee is composed of Julie Sheffield, Lenise Cook, Margaret Stone, and myself. The election is scheduled for May 12.

If you have any questions about the offices or duties of president or secretary, please do not hesitate to ask. You may also click on this link Brethren Christian PFC for more information on how PFC supports the school.

In His service,

Belinda Lee

Parent Fellowship Council Secretary
Brethren Christian Junior & Senior High School

The next PFC meeting is Friday, May 12, 8:00am - Elections

Please join us.  Will you commit to praying about joining the Council?

We Do This All Day, Every Day

We make assumptions about people and situations all day, every day. We assume we know what others are really thinking, why they’re doing the things they’re doing and what they really mean. The problem with making assumptions is that we almost always assume the negative. I do, anyway.

Too often we jump to a conclusion that is not only wrong, but also often hurtful. For example, if our children are not responding to us, we quickly assume that they’re rude and disrespectful. If our partner or friend is quiet and sullen, we assume they’re mad at us, relationally inept or impossible to talk with. If a parent gives us feedback, we assume it’s because all they see in us is the negative. Seldom do we assume positive intentions.

Although there may be times when our assumptions are correct, the reality is that, more often than not, they are incorrect...and strongly negatively slanted. For example, a while back I was in a home decorating store and walked past a woman wearing an overwhelming amount of perfume. I immediately started sneezing, my nose was running, my eyes were watering and I started having to clear my throat incessantly. I powered through the sudden onset of these symptoms, got in line and was content to wait my turn. As I was standing there I was still incessantly clearing my throat for no other reason but to keep breathing when suddenly the clerk behind the counter yells at me “I’m going as fast as I can! Stop being so rude!” I was stunned. She assumed I was being inpatient and was discontent waiting in line when in fact I was not unhappy at all except for the fact that my eyes and nose were running profusely and my throat was practically closing shut. This clerk made an assumption. I probably would have made the same one.

When it comes to the behaviors of others, remember that you truly do not know what’s going on in their head—even when you are “sure” you do. If you’re assuming something about someone in your life, at least give him or her the courtesy of checking out your assumptions. The worst that can happen is that they tell you you’re right—in which case it’s no longer an assumption, but a fact. Know that when it comes to interpreting or assuming why others are doing or saying something our lens is clouded. Our assumptions are highly negatively skewed and that negative slant greatly hurts our relationships. Sometimes the behavior of others just simply isn’t about us or expectations of us.

Make room for a different story and check it out with the other person. You may just be pleasantly surprised.

SUCCEED [NAVIANCE]

BCHS uses Succeed.Naviance as the college search and career interest engine as well as a place to track course plans for high school. Students use this tool to identify personality type, career interests, identify college plans, keep track of colleges applied to, results, and final college choice. This data is stored for BC information, providing teachers, administration and students with valuable comparable data through scattergrams and charts.

The site is: https://succeed.naviance.com/bchs

>>> IMPORTANT FOR COLLEGE PREPARATION:

Students can access Succeed.Naviance site with their new bchs eMail address and their password. If a student has forgotten or misplaced their password, a new one can be generated and sent to them. The student just needs to eMail Ms. Flippin at mflippin@bchs.net or come in and let her know. It only takes a few seconds.

As a parent, if you want to access the program, you too can use your eMail address. An initial login password will be sent to you. Let Ms. Flippin know by eMail and she will set you up.
Juniors . . . Class of 2018

College Time-line for Juniors

- Keep your Naviance account updated. JUNIOR AUDITS have been completed!
- Establish a “short list” of viable colleges that you are very interested in (4-7 colleges). Put in Succeed. Naviance. DO YOUR RESEARCH
- SAT/ACT Preparation - Register and take test. Dates available; See Chart above.
- Attend National College Fair on April 23 at Anaheim Convention Center. Free registration: www.nacacfairs.org/netstudentregistration

NCAA Clearing House www.ncaa.org
1 – Student must apply online.
2 – Any junior student who intends to play a sport in college Div. I or Div. II must register with the NCAA.

REMEMBER: College is a match to be made, not a prize to be won. There is no ‘one’ college that is a perfect fit for everyone, but rather there are several wonderful matches for each student.

SOPHOMORES . . . Class of 2019

College Preparation…

- Use this chart Four-year College Plan to establish a high school course plan to meet personal graduation expectations.
- Start researching colleges and careers
- Decide when you are going to take the ACT or SAT. Register. Prepare accordingly. Recommended time to take test (for baseline score):
  - Spring for Sophomore year or Fall of Junior year
All freshmen in “tech” class will receive Succeed.Naviance account to start personality “type” Do What You Are  www.firstnamelastname@students.bchs.net

Use this chart Four-year College Plan to establish a high school course plan to meet personal graduation expectations.
